THE COLORADO SPRINGS GAZETTE,
A DAILY PAPER OCTOBER NEWS.

DECEMBER 20, 1858.

THE LOCAL PAPER.—You owe it to your safety to rally around it to its support, and exact from it a full, high-toned character as you would do from any editor in your midst. It is in no sense beneath notice and care—for it is your representative. Indeed, in its character, it is the summation of the importance, interest, and we are of you all. Still the aggregate of your own consequence, and you cannot ignore it without misery and depreciating yourselves.—New York Times.

NOTICE.

We have a considerable number of outstanding accounts, of which we need an immediate settlement. Mr. Durfee has them for collection, and we hope that he will obtain a prompt payment. Many of these accounts are for small sums, and have been running on our books for several months: we cannot afford to let them remain unpaid any longer.

"OUT-POST" PRINTING CO.

It is to be regretted that the leading Newspaper of the Territory is not the more comprehensive and magnanimous in its ideas. The Rocky Mountain News ought certainly to aspire to be something more than a mere Denver partisan; yet we are continually reminded by its utterances that it is jealous of every place in the Territory except the city in which it is published. Now it is this Town, now it is the other, about which the warning voice is raised, and the Denver people are exhorted to desirous themselves, less some geon y more strong sin past their months. The News would have Denver, not the metropolis of the Territory, but the monopoly is not the central and chief city, but the only city.

It's just now the turn o' Colorado Springs to be held up as the scarecrow. The Tribune ventured, a few days ago, to express an unfavorable opinion about the present and prospective condition of the Denver and South Park Railway scheme, in view of which the voters of Arapahoe County were induced to vote $300,000 in bonds. Whereupon the News immediately sent word to the people of Denver that the Tribune was traitor to their interests and ought to come down to Colorado Springs—that Colorado Springs was aiming for the prize of the South Park road, and would rob them of their rights unless they washed things o'cosey, and so forth.

Now, we protest—very much as befits us—against this sort of trifling. If the men would themselves be joint proprietors, would therefore seem to be separable.

Certainly some means ought to be adopted whereby we could save the costly feuds of parties which are manifested from raw material that is produced in the Territory, and whereby we could also keep at home the profits of the manufacture. There are, of course, many other branches of manufacture than those we have named, to which the same remarks would apply; but we mention them as, probably, the most certain to prove remunerative.

It is time that our people bestir themselves about the San Juan trade. Pueblo is taking steps to secure it, and Canon City is also making a move in putting in its claim. We are assured that the road from Colorado Springs is the best of all, and needs but a comparatively small expenditure to put it thoroughly good order. We are also informed that over a six hundred miles from here can be made available for a moderate outlay. This, however, therefore, are active, we ought not to let the thing go by default, or make the good things which our natural advantages offer to us.

It would be well, we think, for a public meeting to be held, and to send a thoroughly round a man to look over the ground, and report. Then, it is not difficult to see that the present road can be improved, or that a more direct one is feasible, which can be taken without desisting, for the outlay of a few thousand dollars would be absolutely negligible in the coming Spring and Summer. Let two or three of our prominent men test this out.

The exhibit of Colorado's growth, in assessed valuation of real and personal property, and in population, which we reproduce from the Denver Tribune, shows that our own County has been foremost in the path of progress. What is the aggregate valuation of property in the Territory's cities more than a couple of thousand three years ago, that of El Paso County is more than fourfold. From $52,665 in 1850, our valuation has gone up to $2,08,005 in 1853. Our prospective increase in population has been known to exceed in one or two cases, but this fact makes it necessary we should have a better estimate of the same. They are, though, that the Colorado cities would be compelled to be added. We now have Colorado Springs, which may be annexed to Canon City, and which is well developed. It is, as may now be seen, the second largest town to the El Paso County, and into the latter, we would suppose, it would come to some who have made themselves & prevent the assessment of money that has been made a sacrifice. It is what is said to have come from the cause of the Rocky Mountain News in "Toxicizing Drunks." With this idea before them, some of our citizens say, "License the Liquor-mongers, or one or two are too apt to seek. The offering of the law, giving an impetus to the development of those who have made Colorado, has been a prime cause. The foundation of Colorado Springs and Manitou has brought in a very large amount of wealth. The determination of our stockmen to improve their flocks and herds, by the introduction of first-class animals has contributed largely to swell the assessor's lists.

These instances will all operate in the future as they have done in the course of the last year or two. We have abundant natural resources and the work of development in the various parts of the County has only just begun. Colorado Springs and Manitou are but at the outset of their growth, and every day brings fresh evidence that they will rise both steadily and rapidly into importance. Our stockmen, having taken the first steps towards the grazing up of their sheep and cattle, will, without doubt, increase the value of their flocks and herds every succeeding year, or years to come. There can be no doubt, therefore, that El Paso County has prepared for a future as bright as, if not brighter than, that of any other section of our rising Territory.

There are two industrial enterprises which ought to prosper well in Colorado Springs, if they were set going—a Tannery and a large Shoemaking Factory. Any one who would enter upon either of these enterprises might almost command the trade of the Territory, for he would be without competition.

It is just now the turn o' Colorado Springs to be held up as the scarecrow. The Tribune ventured, a few days ago, to express an unfavorable opinion about the present and prospective condition of the Denver and South Park Railway scheme, in view of which the voters of Arapahoe County were induced to vote $300,000 in bonds. Whereupon the News immediately sent word to the people of Denver that the Tribune was traitor to their interests and ought to come down to Colorado Springs—that Colorado Springs was aiming for the prize of the South Park road, and would rob them of their rights unless they washed things o'cosey, and so forth.

It need scarcely be said—that it has been said often enough before, and is well known—that the cost of sending the horses East to be tanned and made up, and the cost of bringing the manufactured articles back to Colorado, amount to as much as a handsome profit on the goods, and the Home Manufacturer, who will save all that expense, ought certainly to make large profits.

As most of the citizens in connection with the Rocky Mountain News, was he at the residence of Mr. C. H. Vining, on Wednesday evening last.
